Dear Hiring Committee-

Bri Kappers is an amazing educator at Riverview Middle School in Plymouth. She is well known for her instructional expertise, ability to build relationships with her students, and her leadership.

Bri is very instructionally sound. She has an excellent ability to sort through all of the "fluff" in education in order to find what is really valuable as a strategy. Mrs. Kappers fills her students' days with meaningful instruction and activities. Bri incorporates best practices in the area of literacy and is confident enough to incorporate strategies and practices of her own that she knows will support student learning. She holds her students to a high bar both academically and as citizens of the school. Yet, her students like her and know that she cares about them as people.

Mrs. Kappers does a great job at building relationships. Her students know that she values them as learners and as people. She knows how to engage her students as individuals and her passion ignites student interest. Bri takes the time to get to know her students on a personal level so that she can help them become better literacy students. She knows that connecting with students and their interests will help them become more engaged in their reading and writing.

I've known Bri for two years and have been impressed with her many strengths and leadership capabilities. I know that Bri will certainly impress your hiring team. If she is hired and chooses to accept the position, she will be a great addition to your faculty. Should you have any additional questions about Mrs. Kappers, please feel free to contact me so that I can verbally give you my highest recommendation for this amazing teacher.

Sincerely,
