To Whom It May Concern:

Letter of Recommendation for Tami Nelson

I have had the privilege of having Tami teach elementary music here at Washington for the past two years. Her standards make writing this letter both enjoyable and rewarding.

Tami has insight into the needs of students. She is able to focus on children's strengths and weaknesses and adjust curriculum based on their responses to the material. She is courteous, and professional in her attitude as an educator.

One of Tami's great strengths is her enthusiasm and interest in students. As stated above, she focuses on an individual student's needs, and then adjusts her teaching and material accordingly. Regardless of the make-up of her classroom of students or the surroundings in which she works, children's needs are met to the best of her ability. Tami is willing to tackle any project and sees potential where others may not. Students are taught that their best effort must be given at all times. Her musical abilities are an incentive for students to achieve to their potential.

Another strength for Tami is her interest in being a team player. She fits in with staff according to the 'building personality'. Whether advice or materials or teaching approaches, whatever Tami uses is available to those she works with. She gives a massive amount of her own time to help others be successful.

I would be happy to discuss any further questions or issues personally. I can be reached at 218-879-3369. Tami would be a great addition to any staff.

Sincerely,

Randy Thudju
Washington Principal
